REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE

I, the Chairman of the Joint Committee to which the Bill* to establish and incorporate a University in Delhi was referred, having been authorised to submit the Report on their behalf, present this their Report, with the Bill as amended by the Committee annexed thereto.

2. The Bill was introduced in the Rajya Sabha on the 24th December, 1964. The motion for reference of the Bill to a Joint Committee of the Houses was moved on the 31st August, 1965, by Shri M. C. Chagla, Minister of Education and was adopted by the House on the 1st September, 1965.

3. The Lok Sabha discussed the motion on the 20th September, 1965 and concurred in it on the 21st September, 1965.

4. The message from the Lok Sabha was read out to the Rajya Sabha on the 22nd September, 1965.

5. The Committee held six sittings in all.

6. At their first sitting held on the 25th September, 1965, the Committee decided that a Press Communique be issued inviting memoranda from institutions and individuals interested in the Bill so as to reach the Rajya Sabha Secretariat by the 10th October, 1965. The Committee authorised the Chairman to decide after examining the aforementioned memoranda as to who might be invited to give oral evidence before the Committee. The Committee also decided that some eminent educationists might also be invited by the Chairman of the Committee to give oral evidence before the Committee on the various aspects of the Bill.

7. Two memoranda on the Bill were received by the Committee from individuals.

8. The Committee heard evidence tendered by eight educationists.

9. The Committee decided that the whole of the evidence tendered before them be laid on the Table of the House.

*Published in Part II, Section 2 of the Gazette of India Extraordinary, dated the 24th December, 1964.

10. The Committee considered the Draft Report on the 1st November, 1965 and adopted it, with minor changes, on the same day.

11. Before dealing in detail with the changes made in the various clauses of the Bill, the Committee wish to draw attention to a few important alterations made in the proposed legislation.

12. According to the Bill as introduced in the House, it was intended that the Jawaharlal Nehru University should affiliate certain colleges in the southern part of Delhi which have been already affiliated to the University of Delhi and with that end in view, a territorial jurisdiction was also assigned to the new University. Several Members of the Committee and distinguished educationists, who were called as witnesses, however, stressed that with a view to emphasise the unique character of the University to be named after the late Jawaharlal Nehru the idea of affiliating the existing colleges with different traditions should be dropped and institutions of higher learning wherever they are situate should be recognised by, and associated with, the University. When seats of higher learning are thus recognised or associated, the witnesses felt, the University will have the character of an all-India institution of national importance. The Committee accepted the suggestions and as a consequence references to "University area" and to territorial jurisdiction have been omitted and the definitions of 'college" and "institution" have been recast. The Jawaharlal Nehru University will, however, have power to establish and maintain new colleges for imparting education to under-graduates on the lines envisaged by it so that the University may grow from the base. Such colleges when established will, to a certain extent, relieve the pressure of admission to colleges already affiliated to the University of Delhi.

13. The objects of the University have been clearly enunciated by the insertion of a new provision (clause 4). Further, paragraph (21) of clause 5 [original paragraph (18) of clause 4] and the First Schedule now inserted clearly make provision that the University should endeavour to promote the study of the principles and fulfil the ideals for which Jawaharlal Nehru stood and worked during his life time.

14. The principal changes suggested by the Committee in the Bill and the reasons therefor have been set out in the succeeding paragraphs.

CLAUSE 2

The definitions of "College" and "Institution" have been changed and the definition of "University area" has been omitted in conformity with the decision of the Committee referred to in paragraph 12.

CLAUSE 4 (NEW)

As already pointed out, this is a new clause designed to define the objects of the Jawaharlal Nehru University in clear terms.

CLAUSE 5 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 4)

Paragraph (1).—The Committee have recast this paragraph taking power to provide for instruction in the Social Sciences and Agriculture.

Paragraph (5) (New).—This provision will enable the University to confer degrees honoris causa.

Paragraph (9) [Original paragraph (8)].—By the insertion of the word "guide", it is emphasised that the role of the University is not only to recognise, supervise and control Halls maintained by the University and other accommodation for students but also to guide them.

Paragraph (11) [Original paragraph (10)].—The Committee had expressly provided that the University shall have power to make arrangements for promoting health and general welfare of the employees of the University also.

Paragraph (13) [Original paragraph (12)].—This has been recast to give effect to the decision of the Committee to make the University a non-affiliated one.

Paragraph (14) [Original paragraph (13)].—The arrangement in regard to co-operation with other academic bodies envisaged in this paragraph is necessarily reciprocal; and with a view to placing this aspect of reciprocity beyond doubt, the Committee have amended the paragraph.

Paragraph (17) [Original paragraph (16)].—The power given under this paragraph has been extended to cover the acceptance of donations for the purposes or objects of the University.

Paragraphs (18) and (19) (New).—Power has been taken under these paragraphs to make provision for research and advisory services and for that purpose to enter into such arrangement with such institutions or bodies, as the University may deem necessary and for the printing reproduction, publication of research and other work which may be issued by the University.

Paragraph (21) [Original paragraph (18)].—As already pointed out in paragraph 13, this has been recast.

The other changes made in the clause are of a drafting and consequential nature.

CLAUSE 6 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 5)

This has been redrafted omitting reference to territorial jurisdiction with a view to ensure that the jurisdiction of the University shall extend to all colleges maintained by it, and to recognised institutions, that is to say, to all institutions of higher learning maintained or recognised by, or associated with, the University. This will enable the University to become a national institution of all-India importance. Care has also been taken to provide that an institution which has already been recognised by the University of Delhi can be granted recognition by the Jawaharlal Nehru University only if the Central Government authorised it to do so after consultation with the University of Delhi.

CLAUSE 7 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 6)

The changes made in this clause are of a consequential and drafting nature.

CLAUSE 8 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 7)

The Committee are of the view that the Visitor should be empowered to appoint competent persons from time to time to review the work and progress of the University and to issue necessary directions in the matter. The Committee are also of the view that the Visitor should have power to issue directions to the Vice-Chancellor in respect of matters coming under review, inspection or inquiry and that the University should be bound to carry out the directions issued by the Visitor in the matter. Two new sub-clauses viz. sub-clause (2) and sub-clause (4) have been added to this clause for this purpose.

CLAUSE 9 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 8)

Sub-clause (1).—Sub-clause (1) (original) has been recast and split up into two sub-clauses viz. sub-clause (1) and sub-clause (2).

Sub-clause (4) [Original sub-clause (3)].—The Committee consider that instead of Pro-Vice-Chancellors, there should be Rectors to assist the Vice-Chancellor in the discharge of his duties. The sub-clause has been recast accordingly.

Sub-clause (5) [Original sub-clause (4)].—As it is proposed to have only Schools of Study in the University, reference to Faculties has been omitted from this sub-clause and wherever else it occurs in the Bill.

The other changes made in the clause are of a drafting nature.

CLAUSE 10 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 9)

The Committee consider that the Council of Students' Affairs should not be enumerated as an authority of the University in the Bill but provision for this Council should be made in the Statutes. Reference to the Council has accordingly been omitted from the Clause.

CLAUSE 14 (NEW)

The clause provides for the establishment of an Academic Advisory Committee During the evidence it was brought to the notice of the Committee that in foreign countries many modern universities have an academic planning board built into their constitutions. The Academic Advisory Committee as envisaged in the Clause will consist of not more than seven persons of high academic standing who are not on the staff of the University, and will advise generally on the planning and development of the University and keep under review the standard of education and research in the University. Its role is that of a guide.

It is possible that in future, when the University has been firmly established and is progressing satisfactorily, the Visitor may feel that there is no further need for continuance of the Advisory Committee Power has therefore been given to the Visitor to determine the date of its dissolution.

CLAUSE 15 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 13)

The changes made in this clause are of a formal and drafting nature.

CLAUSE 16 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 14)

The Committee consider that the first Statutes should come under the scrutiny of Parliament and be approved by it. Accordingly the first Statutes have been incorporated in the Bill (the Second Schedule) and the Clause has been suitably amended.

The Committee are also of the opinion that the Academic Council should have a say in the framing of any Statute affecting the discipline of students and standards of instruction, education and examination. A second proviso has accordingly been added to sub-clause (2) of the clause.

The other changes made in the clause are of a formal nature.

CLAUSE 17 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 15)

The Committee feel that it should be provided in the enactment itself that the first Ordinances should be made by the Vice-Chancellor with the previous approval of the Central Government. Sub-clause (2) of the clause has accordingly been recast.

The other changes are of a consequential and drafting nature.

CLAUSE 21 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 19)

The Committee feel that the question whether any person has been duly elected or appointed or is entitled to be a member of any authority or body of the University should be referred to the Visitor instead of the Chancellor. Necessary change has accordingly been made in the clause.

CLAUSE 26 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 24)

The Committee consider that, as in the case of the appointment of the first Vice-Chancellor, the power to nominate the first Chancellor and to make the first nominations to the Court, the Executive Council and the Academic Council should be vested in the Visitor and not in the Central Government. Paragraph (a) of the clause has been amended accordingly.

CLAUSE 27 (ORIGINAL CLAUSE 25)

In view of the changes made in the pattern of the University from an affiliating to a non-affiliating type and from a territorial to an all-India type, the clause has been suitably recast.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE (NEW)

Consequent on the amendment of paragraph (21) of clause 5 [original paragraph (18) of clause 4,] this Schedule has been added to the Bill.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE (NEW)

This Schedule has been added pursuant to the amendments made in clause 16 (original clause 14).

15. The Committee recommend that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

NEW DELHI;
November 1, 1965.

G. S. PATHAK,
Chairman of the Joint Committee.

MINUTES OF DISSENT

I

In Statutes 11 and 13 (the Second Schedule) regarding membership of the Court and the Executive Council respectively no representative of Delhi Government has been included. The Administrative set-up of Delhi has been under consideration for sometime. Now a 'Metropolitan Council' with Lt. Governor-in-Council is proposed to be set-up. A Bill giving effect to this scheme is likely to be introduced in the current session of Lok Sabha. The Metropolitan Council will be incharge of Higher Secondary Education, Technical Education, Development of land, etc. The Municipal Corporation and the New Delhi Municipal Committee would be under it. The work and development of the University would be smoothened if representatives of Metropolitan Council are included in the Court and the Executive Council. The representatives of the Metropolitan Council would also be able to place before the Court and the Executive Council the views of Delhi which has always been inspired by Nehru's ideals and influenced by his policies and programmes.

II

While appreciating that the Joint Committee has made a serious endeavour to change the terms of the Bill so that it could be more in keeping with the objectives stressed almost unanimously during discussion in both Houses of Parliament, we regret, we still have to put in certain points which the majority of our colleagues could not be persuaded to accept.

A very important part of the Bill is the First Schedule where the objects of the projected University have been set out. The Committee has thought fit to make a special reference to the Schedule in Clause 4, even at the cost of making the formulation somewhat avoidably clumsy. Apart from the advancement of "knowledge, wisdom and understanding," the University has been saddled with the responsibility of "fulfilling the ideals" of Jawaharlal Nehru. Some of these "ideals" have been further set out, and so far as they go, they might well be thought of as being unexceptionable. It is no part, however, of a University's task to "fulfil" a great man's "ideals", particularly when, as in this case, the great man concerned was a ceaselessly active and most extraordinarily pre-occupied participator in political life, and in spite of the most engaging intellectual qualities never presumed to be a systematic thinker whose ideas and ideals have been adequately articulated. It is, of course, permissible to "study", from different aspects and with the questioning spirit which is the very life of academies, the "principles" and "ideals" which have given the tone to Jawaharlal's life and work. Such study is certainly also desirable. But we cannot be a party to a formulation, as there is in this Bill, pinning down the University to the task of "fulfilling" the "ideals" of a particular person, howsoever eminent. It would be imposing on the University a kind of peculiar partisan pressure which might stifle intellectual creativity.

We have sought in vain, however, to include among the "principles" and "ideals" a mention of the word "socialism". It appears that the Committee was ready only to go as far as the expression "social justice" as one of the ideals held by Jawaharlal Nehru and no further—in spite of his having made innumerable statements about "socialism" as his objective and even that of the party which he had led so long. We tried, unsuccessfully, to persuade the Committee that there should be a special mention of "socialism" and that the University should be specifically charged with providing for adequate study of it. For ourselves, like numberless others, we are convinced that socialism alone is the fulfilment of freedom, but our intention was and is that Jawaharlal Nehru University should make special provision for its study, not from any particular partisan point of view but as a creative idea with various facets which not even its avowed enemies today can ignore. In the United States we hear these days of "Marxologists", a designation given to scholars who are passionately anti-Marxist and yet feel under an obligation to learn (if only to refute) the encyclopaedic content of Marxist thought. Socialism is today such a tremendous world phenomenon that even without adhering to it, our scholars could well try to grapple with its wealth of ideas, and the projected Jawaharlal Nehru University could be a sponsor of the effort. Our recommendation to Parliament is that provision to that effect be made in the First Schedule.

It is a pity that the Committee could not have the advantage of hearing expert opinion on the terms on which learned bodies like the Indian Institute of Technology, the All India Institute of Medical Sciences, the Schools of International Studies and of Public Administration, could be effectively linked with the proposed University. This is an idea on which Government could hardly offer any concrete material. We would like Parliament to go into this question, and, if thought fit, to incorporate necessary provisions in the Bill itself.

Members of both Houses have stressed how education, especially at University level, is so expensive that the overwhelming majority of our people are virtually debarred from it. We are aware that we do not have the resources of the Soviet Union which has thrown open the doors of its Patrice Lumumba Friendship University, completely free of all cost, to students from Asia, Africa and Latin America. In the Jawaharlal Nehru University, however, we should make an effort to draw foreign students and provide requisite scholarships and awards. We should also see to it that deserving students are drawn from all the States of India and a sufficient number of scholarships and other facilities provided, which will enable poorer students availing themselves of them. We wish to ask Parliament to consider the idea given expression to by some expert witness before the Committee, who thought that a quota system for different States, enabling adequate representation in the student body of the University, should be devised. We feel that some statutory provision should be made for drawing in students from all the States and for facilitating their study by adequate assistance for poor but meritorious students from different regions of the country.

It is to be noted that the Bill provides for a hierarchy of dignitaries—Visitor, Chancellor, Vice-Chancellor, Rector, etc. When there is the Visitor, there does not seem to be any need for a Chancellor whose functions are virtually nil except as a decorative figure on ceremonial occasions. If the Vice-Chancellor is given a different designation—that of President or Master or Warden or any of the numerous available academic honorifics—the only tenable argument for having a Chancellor will disappear. Indeed, it amused the Committee but surely could not convince it, when it was told that since we have a Vice-Chancellor, we have to have a Chancellor. We object to the proposed plethora of dignitaries whose overwhelming presence quite often detracts from quiet and serious academic work, and we suggest that necessary changes be made in the Bill.

In Statute 35 (g) of the Second Schedule, there is provision for the imparting of "moral instruction", whatever its exact connotation might be. Exhortation, howsoever worthily worded, often defeats its purpose, and character grows through intangible influences that a properly functioning University should generate. To teach "moral" lessons to adult scholars, in a world of unwonted ferment when youth often seems to behave in ways that sometimes mystify their elders, might well be self-defeating. With every appreciation of the value of ethical conduct, we regret we do not see why the University should take on the specific task of "moral instruction".

A University, if it is to be vital, cannot be just set up from above by Authority and then nurtured in the ways of the bureaucracy to which we are accustomed. It has to grow, out of the labours undertaken and the values cherished by the academic community which is a continuing membership of minds devoted to the tasks of learning and of the good life which some one once defined as being inspired by love and guided by knowledge. It will be the hope of all that the Jawaharlal Nehru University in time develops into an institution which will be cherished. This is all the more reason why we should be careful and more than usually reflective when considering this Bill.

III

The Joint Select Committee, I feel, has chisseled out the Bill and given it a form which will help to a large extent in giving shape to a University worthy of the name of Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru. Mostly, I am in agreement with the present structure of the Bill.

However, I must confess, I am not convinced about the efficaciousness of the correspondence courses. I am confident, real education requires the closest association of the teacher and the taught. In a University of the type we propose to establish it is the environmental effect and the atmosphere that are going to play a greater part in moulding the character of the youth and giving stature to his personality. Hence I feel the utter insuitability of correspondence courses.

I am glad the Joint Select Committee agreed to establish colleges in the different parts of the country. I would still press for the establishment of the actual full-fledged branches of the University in the different regions of the country to work for the integration, cultural evolution and a complete Renaissance in the realm of education. I am confident, the members in the two Houses would give consideration to these points.

PANDIT JWALA PRASAD JYOTISHI

IV

A University loses its universality and tends to suffer from the ills of the cult of personality, when it is identified with the name, principles and ideals of a person. However eminent a person may be, he cannot be equated with the nation. Principles and ideals of a nation tend to lose their universal appeal and healthy dynamism and their studies begin to suffer from scholasticism and indoctrination. when an attempt is made to represent them as principles and ideals of a great man. National ideals are to be studied and cultivated in life not because they are propounded and upheld by a great man but because they promote national good and the healthy growth of personality. The way they are spelled out in the First Schedule, the University is converted into a church and the character and appeal of national ideals are considerably overcast with personality cult. It is hardly fair even to Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru. Pandit Nehru, who dared to differ from his leader Mahatma Gandhi and never allowed himself to be caged in the cult of any prophet or great man, would never have liked national ideals to be distorted or spelled out as ideals of a leader and the youths of his nation to be caged in a new cult with himself as its chief prophet. Pandit Nehru has no doubt played a leading role in the national life of the country for more than forty years. His achievements and failures as well as his principles and ideals of life deserve to be carefully studied in historical perspective. But this is possible only when they are studied as products of history and sufficient attention is paid to the study of the life works of other leaders who preceded him or worked in his life time. The Indian history does not begin and end with him, and, therefore, university which must represent India in all its totality, cannot be identified with him in the manner in which it is being identified in this Bill. Pandit Nehru is great in his own right, and his greatness hardly needs his specific identification with a university. While social objectives of a University are usually defined in the main body of the University Act, the ways to promote them are spelled out in Ordinances. The two are hardly ever jumbled together in a Schedule in a manner proposed in the First Schedule. So that the University may be able to function properly in a free academic atmosphere, it should not be called as Jawaharlal Nehru University, its social objectives should be defined in the main body of the Bill as national objectives and the First Schedule should be dropped.

In clauses 6 and 7 of the Bill the jurisdiction of the university is not properly defined. Both these clauses contemplate dual jurisdiction over certain institutions which is not proper.

Clause 9(4) provides for the appointment of more than one Rector. The Vice-Chancellor may need a Rector to assist him in performing his duties. But he must not have more than one Rector.

Clause 14 debars a member of the staff of the University from the membership of the Academic Advisory Committee. This is not proper.

Proposed statutes must also provide for the constitution and functions of the faculties and boards of studies without which the constitution of a university is incomplete.

Statute 7 empowers the Vice-Chancellor to appoint Deans of Schools of Studies. They should be appointed by the Executive Council.

The authority which is entrusted with the power of appointment is also entrusted with the power of suspension and removal. So the power of suspension of a teacher must vest in the Executive Council. A show-cause notice may, however, be issued and preliminary explanations may be called for from the teacher concerned by the Vice-Chancellor. Statute 30(1) should be suitably amended.

At least senior administrative officers such as the Rector, Registrar, the Finance Officer and the Librarian need as much protection as a teacher against the wrath of a bare majority of the Executive Council. For the purpose Statute 31 should be suitably amended.

Statute 32 also need to be recast. To ensure proper cooperation of senior professors of the University in maintaining discipline among students, with the Vice-Chancellor must be associated a committee of discipline which should be a statutory standing committee of the Academic Council.

Statute 33 with regard to the membership of students' organisation should be dropped.
